

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image browsing user interface provides convenient viewing of both individual images and groups of images. The user interface provides a convenient way to view both individual images and a preferred image from each group of images.

- 5 The individual and preferred images may be uploaded to an external device or selectively processed by the external device.